Restore System Files With many computers, there's no way of knowing which programs the computer used to boot, nor can you restore the programs that were used by the computer if the hard drive fails. This is why it's important to have a backup of the programs on your computer. It's not always a good idea to spend a lot of time and money on having all your programs backed up on your computer, but if you do, you'll be able to restore them in case something happens.

Recycle Bin Assistant Sometimes, the computer fails to save programs that are used often. Since the Recycle Bin was made to save files that haven't been deleted, it could be the reason why the computer saved the files in the first place. In this case, the Recycle Bin might have saved the files to a location other than the Recycle Bin, and it's not always a good idea to remove files from the Recycle Bin directly.

the files the Recycle Bin has saved, including those that haven't been deleted yet. This way, you can find the files, and delete them without having to worry about where the Recycle Bin is storing the files. How to Use Recycle Bin Assistant As mentioned earlier, Recycle Bin Assistant will help you delete files from your computer.
